MOVING FORWARD IN CHILD CARE: LIVING WITH COVID-19

Join us on May 14th for information & tips as we begin to move toward the reopening the economy on Long Island.

Whether you have been open, or planning to reopen, we will address your concerns. Topics will include regulations, programming and ensuring the health and safety for children & staff.

Presenters will include staff from the Child Care Councils of Nassau and Suffolk, along with our special guest, Robin Beller from the Long Island Regional Office of OCFS.

The program is free, but registration is required.

Supplies Available

We have begun to receive supplies to help child care programs maintain safe & sanitary environments to prevent the spread of COVID-19.

Please complete this survey to let us know your current needs for supplies. If you filled it out previously, please complete it again so we have the most up to date information.

The survey will be used to contact you directly about available supplies.

Available supplies: Masks, gloves, bleach, cleaning spray, hand soap, toilet paper, paper towels, and baby wipes. No-touch thermometers have been ordered, but not received yet.

CACFP (Food Program) Updates

To ensure timely reimbursement for your CACFP claim all of your documents (enrollments, renewals, and menus) must be up to date. If you have any questions please contact cflythe@childcaresuffolk.org or dfernandez@childcaresuffolk.org.

The coronavirus pandemic presents unique challenges that may make it difficult for child nutrition program operators to provide meals and snacks directly to the eligible children in their care. This downloadable handout conveys information, tips, and best practices to consider when allowing distributing meals and snacks to parents and guardians for the children in their care.

Please take five minutes, today, to respond to this survey being conducted by Community Change, a national non-profit organization that believes that effective and enduring social movements must be led by those impacted by social injustice themselves. The survey results will be used to push Congress for $100 billion in support for the child care sector. We need many New York child care providers to respond so our needs are heard in Washington.
